WHEREAS, the COVID-19 pandemic has created public health and economic crises in the United States and in the State of Tennessee; and

WHEREAS, it is imperative that Tennesseans be armed with the skills necessary to survive and compete in a post-pandemic workforce; and

WHEREAS, Site Selection magazine cites ACT WorkKeys® National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRC) as the way for working-age adults in rural areas to demonstrate their personal career aptitude and the readiness of their communities for corporate investment; and

WHEREAS, the State recognizes that many employers require the NCRC as a condition of employment; and

WHEREAS, the opportunity to pursue the industry-recognized, nationally portable NCRC will provide Tennesseans access to the jobs necessary for their recovery from the economic crisis caused by the COVID-19 pandemic; and

WHEREAS, in the spirit of the Complete College Tennessee Act of 2010, the NCRC aligns with the State's vision to increase the number of Tennesseans that earn a postsecondary credential in order to remain economically competitive nationally and globally; and

WHEREAS, the ability to attract business and industry into the State and its municipalities will aid the State in its recovery from the crises caused by the COVID-19 pandemic by allowing the State to achieve a statewide Work Ready Community designation; now, therefore,
